Over their almost five decades of history, Gunni&Trentino have become one of Spain's interior design icons, and have recently widened their horizons on the international marketplace with projects such as this spectacular house in Bogotá.

This stunning construction located in the eastern hills of Bogotá is a magnificent example of the international projects carried out by Gunni&Trentino

GUNNI&TRENTINO. Creating spaces exuding personality

Text by PAUL PILCHER

When it comes to interior design in Spain, Gunni&Trentino rolls off the tongue as one of the key players in the growth of the sector in this country. Founded more than 45 years ago, the firm is a reflection of the extraordinary modernisation of Spain in the last half-century. In line with its leap onto the EU bandwagon coupled with its deep social and cultural transformation, architecture and design firms such as Gunni&Trentino have not only consolidated interior design in Spain, but have managed to diversify and expand their field of work and open up to international markets.

Today Gunni&Trentino works with more than six hundred brands from the world of design, in addition to their own production. From flooring and coatings, doors and cabinets, to bathrooms, indoor and outdoor furniture and kitchens, their team of specialists are there to offer a comprehensive solution to any project, not only on a national level but anywhere else in the world.

It comes as no surprise that they now have stores in Madrid -including a spectacular flagship store opened in 2018- Marbella, Bilbao and Barcelona in Spain, and two stores in Dubai and Bogota from where they operate in these growing regional markets. This successful international expansion is a direct consequence of the company's capacity to offer clients full customisation, with a guarantee rooted in the four underlying pillars of their philosophy: quality, excellence, creativity and exquisite service in each project. Each of these shine through in the work of Gunni&Trentino in the project carried out for this luxury family house located in the eastern hills of the city of Bogotá in partnership with the architect José Luís García Iannini.

It proved to be a particularly unique case given the location and the nature of the work

The interior design combines the owners' specific taste and artistic collection with maximum functionality and comfort in every room to be carried out, posing a challenge for the architect faced with integrating the structure harmoniously into its surroundings, while the interior design team breathed life into each corner of the home. The result speaks for itself: a skilful combination of artistic design sensitivity and the exact measure of functionality required to provide optimum comfort in true class. Harmony and balance flows between each space. In the dining room and the terraces for example, Gunni&Trentino skilfully combined made-to-measure pieces with others from brands such as Poliform, Kettal and Antonio Citterio for Max Alto, from which to enjoy the panoramic views over the Colombian capital. Ensuring the house blended effortlessly into the surroundings was one of the major goals in the project, achieved thanks to the selection of materials, including bricks and various coverings, as well as the layout itself of the construction on different levels. Each last detail, down to the rugs and lamps completes a home that features several different bathrooms - particularly the impressive main one with colossal windows and views out to the horizon, reached via a large dressing room and a home cinema. It is a dream home that showcases the quality of the work of a Spanish firm that has successfully crossed borders to new markets while retaining all their personality.
